

SuperPro Trio Round One

The floodlights lit up the circuit on a clear night at Bayford Meadows and with a good grid of drivers present, we were in for a good race at the first round of the SuperPro Trio series.

The first race saw the familiar sibling rivalry of Gareth and Mitchell Holland, who were constantly swapping between first and second throughout the heat. Mitchell eventually managed to hold onto the lead, winning by just 0.059 seconds. Max Cloughton managed to get third position, slightly ahead of Connor Ambrose who finished fourth.

Mitchell Holland had a more comfortable race in the second heat, pulling away from the pack and winning by a clear 4.5 seconds. Ben Conway got closest to him, finishing in a well-earned second position. Gareth Holland was third and Connor Ambrose repeated his performance in the first heat with a fourth place finish.

The results were added together with unsurprisingly Mitchell Holland as our overall winner; Gareth coming in second and Ben Conway's excellent effort in the second heat meant he managed to get third place.
